

LDC 2-10: Engineering Report Review

Abstract

On most projects, your firm's deliverables will include contract documents, specifications and an engineering report that details and describes the project at hand. This Engineering Report Review Checklist is intended to help the project manager with the technical and visual aspects of the report preparation, as well as the review and approval process of the report.